DOUBLE HEADER TODAY

Lime Burners Here for a Long Stay.

Manager Drumm to Shake up Team
both in Field and at Bat—Notes of Interest.

The Lime Burners today commence a long series at home and the bugs are hoping that the club, with the encouragement of large crowds, will shake off the hoodoo that seems to be hovering over the camp.

With the exception of Tate and Lindemann every player is in first class condition. Tate's ankle still bothers him but he is able to get around on it better, and within a few days will be as good as ever.

"DOC" BAILEY,
Manager of the Marion team, scheduled to play today.

He is still there with his batting eye and in the present series his batting doubting will be one of the features.

Al Wilcox has not worked since last Saturday and should be in great shape for the first game of today's double-header. Fox will pitch the second game. Either Burk or Blough will work Friday.

The Youngstown Champs will be here Sunday. The Champs have not been winning with any great regularity lately and the Lime Burners should help to keep them on the forebrow. On their last visit the former leaders took three straight from the locals, but this time the players promise revenge. Akron, too, should find some tough picking.

Manager Drumm is hard at work on his plans for a shake-up. The players were worked for about three hours at Webb Park Wednesday afternoon, the principal practice being with the willow. The club has not been hitting up to its gait. Not only will the batting order be switched around, but in the field the Lime Burners will be moved about in an endeavor to secure better work.

Friday will be ladies' day and a large attendance of the fair sex is expected. The management extends another cordial invitation to every lady in the city to attend the game free of charge.

F. C. BUCKHOLZ,
One of the Best Men on the Mansfield Twirling Staff.

While the majority of the bugs are easily discouraged over the recent showing of the club, they are pulling strong during the present home series. If the players show that they have the fighting spirit and get in and play ball there will be more interest taken than at any time this season.

LATHAM AND MORTON BEING CRITICIZED.

Sporting writers around the O. P. circuit are criticizing Umpire Latham and President Morton for their failure to punish Manager Patterson of Sharon for his rowdy tactics several days ago.

Here is a most registered by the Youngstown Telegram:
Umpire Latham failed to report the assault made upon him by Manager Patterson at Willis Park Friday, according to President Morton. Latham said Friday that he had reported the occurrence.

If clean ball is to be maintained in the O. P. Latham is due to receive a sharp reprimand at least. It is as much the duty of an umpire to report an occurrence as Friday's as it is to judge balls and strikes. If Van Patterson had jostled Arlie off the field it would be of no concern to anyone but the parties interested, but on the ball field that's different. There the umpire is an official whose duty it is to see that there is no rowdyism and that duty is owed the entire league. If a dozen fans should quit the game as a result of the disgraceful affair every club of the league would be a loser, and President Morton as head of the league is there to protect its interests.

Morton, according to Sharon people, has said that Latham will not be assigned to umpire with Sharon in the future except when it can't be helped. If that be the case, the men above Morton, his selectors, have a duty to perform. Rowdyism cannot be tolerated.

A Cruel Deception.
"So your fiancée deceived you?"
"Yes; she told me her father was a dealer in stocks." "Isn't he?" "Oh, yes; he makes these dinky little women's collars."

Robert Wallace, shortstop of the St. Louis American League team, is generally recognized as one of the best infielders in the game today. For years he has played a star game, but never better than during the present season. St. Louis fans believe him without a peer.

BALTIMORES ORIGINATED THE SACRIFICE-KILLER

Washington Writer Denies That Fred Tenney is Author of This Baseball Trick.

Some unsophisticated Gotham baseball critic saw the Boston Nationals trying to pull off the old sacrifice killer against the Giants a few days ago, and the next morning his paper heralded this play as a new one and gave Fred Tenney as its inventor, says a Washington writer.

"The play is worked as follows: With a man on first and second, and none out, when it seems certain that the batsman will sacrifice, the shortstop leads the man off of second as far as possible. Then suddenly he dashes for the bag, pulling the base-runner back with him. When the latter is near the bag the pitcher pitches, putting the ball right over where it can be bunted. The first baseman comes in and the pitcher steps to ward third base, while the third baseman stands on his bag. If the ball is bunted to either the first baseman or the pitcher it is thrown to third, where the base runner, who has naturally been unable to get a start off his bag, is forced.

"Double plays have been made in this way by the third baseman throwing to first, which is covered by the second baseman.

"This play was originated by the Baltimore team about ten or eleven years ago. They pulled it off successfully for an entire season; but the other teams finally got on, and instead of bunting the batsman would hit the ball, and with every man on the infield out of position hits would usually result. There have been no new plays sprung in recent years. The Baltimore team perhaps originated more plays than any team that was ever together. It was the Baltimore team which played the hit and run game in 1894, the first year they won the pennant.

The play was virtually unknown before that time. In the first series with the New York Giants, who were then under the management of John Montgomery Ward, the Orioles played the hit and run game, and it was not until the last game that Ward tumbled to what the play was. Before that time it was believed that the Orioles were merely lucky. There never was a ball club with as many brainy players on it as Hanlon had under him in those days. He had nothing to do but sit still on the bench. His players did the thinking, and did it at the right time."

AMONG THE MINORS

Oklahoma has traded Catcher Partidge to Springfield for Catcher Goes. "Texas" Jones and Elmer Meredith have been released by Webb City to Columbus, S. C.

Lawrence Milton, having secured his release from Columbus, S. C., has accepted the management of the Webb City club.

Topeka has released Landreth, outfielder; Forrester and Boles, pitchers, and has signed Outfielder Lawlor and Catcher Tonneman, late of Pueblo.

John S. Ray, late of Leavenworth, has been appointed manager of the Dubuque club.

The Decatur club has filed agreements for Player Lauderhuth, loaned to Mattson and for player C. R. Reyes, loaned to Quincy.

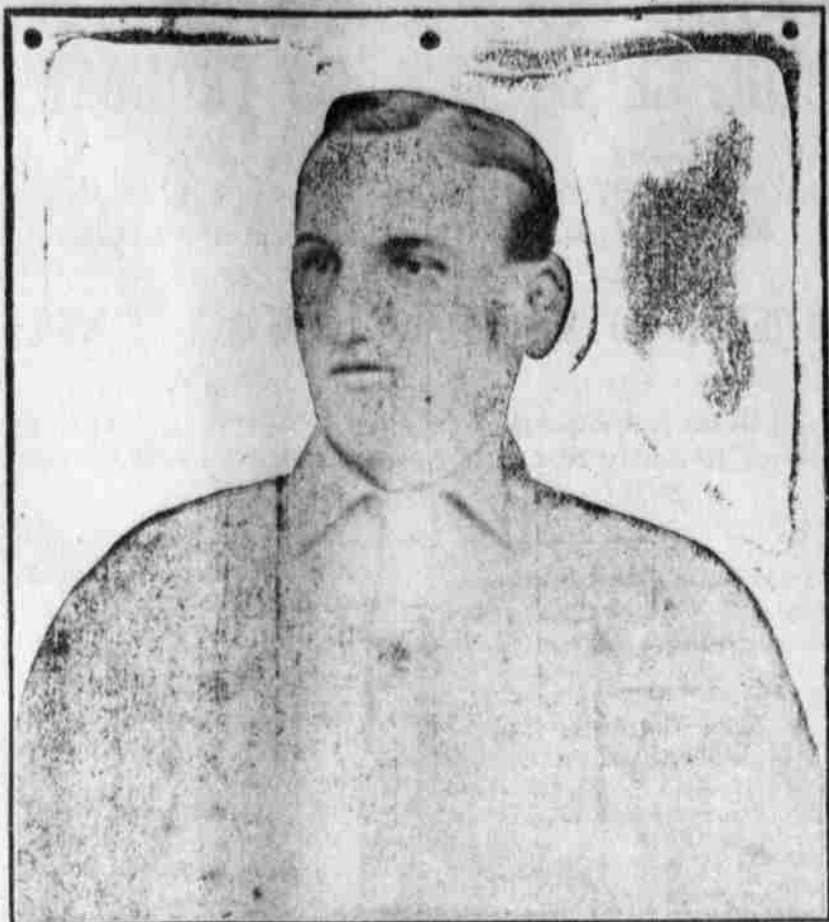

Pitcher Crouch of Sacred Heart college, Watertown, Wis., who went through the college season without losing a game, has reported to South Bend.

Pitcher Elmer Bilas has been appointed manager of the Grand Rapids team in place of Shortstop Groeschow, who will confine himself to a short field work.

The St. Paul club has purchased Pitchers Esnik and Minahan from the Cincinnati club.

The Dubuque club has sold Pitcher Harry Swan to Atlanta.

Idol of St. Louis Fans

Robert Wallace, shortstop of the St. Louis American League team, is generally recognized as one of the best infielders in the game today. For years he has played a star game, but never better than during the present season. St. Louis fans believe him without a peer.

FRANK SELEE RESIGNS PUEBLO MANAGEMENT

Forced to Quit Team on Account of Ill Health—Made Famous Nash-Hamilton Trade.

Frank Selee, the man who made the Nash-Hamilton trade and who laid the foundation for the present Chicago National pace-setting team, has just been compelled to relinquish the management of the Pueblo Western league team on account of ill health. Lew Drill, a former Georgetown backstop, who worked behind the plate for Washington and Detroit and who has recently been with St. Paul in the American association, is Selee's successor.

There are many arguments as to the man who really built up the present National league champions. Selee is given the credit by many persons, while others say that George Huff, the heavyweight scout, deserves the laurels. Selee claims that, barring one man now on the Chicago team picked by Huff, all the rest of the selections were tipped off to the college judge by him when he was the director of the Cubs. When Frank took charge of the Chicago in the fall of 1901, he found King, Chance and Taylor on the Windy City pay roll. Between his first season and his last he added to the team Slagle, who was released by Boston; Brown, who was obtained by a trade to St. Louis for Taylor; Evers, Schulte, Renibach, Pfeister, Finkler, Hoffman and Lundgren. Murphy and Chance made the deals for Overall, Steinfeldt, Sheekard, Fraser and Moran and for the return of Taylor, but they gave in exchange players who were obtained by Selee. Originally Tom Loftus got Kling for the Cubs, while Jim Hart picked Chance and Taylor.

NATIONAL LEAGUE NEWS

From all indications the return of Pitcher Reulbach to form is permanent.

Frank Chance has made only two errors at first base for Chicago this season.

Steinfeldt is leading the Chicago Cubs at the bat with an average of over .300.

Manager McCloskey asserts that he has finally driven all the trouble-makers from the St. Louis team.

The Cardinals' new pitcher, Raymond, has great natural ability and a good head; but his habits are against him.

Dave Brain has not a very fat batting percentage, but he has done some very timely hitting for Boston just the same.

The St. Louis club has recalled Pitcher Stevenson from the Terre Haute club, and has turned Outfielder Kelley back to Baltimore.

With Bresnahan out of the game, Bowerman, who has had a bad hip, and Fitzgerald, a youngster, are doing the catching for the Giants.

Captain Gansel is fast developing into the star pinch hitter of the Cincinnati team, with Larry McLean still leading by a small margin.

"I'm no longer the veteran shortstop," declared Tom Corcoran. "It is entirely an fait to refer to me as the 'promising' second baseman now."

Dan McGann keeps up his good hitting. There are not many who can drive a ball away with more velocity than McGann when he is in batting mood.

The Chicago club traded two substitutes—Outfielder Newton J. Randall and Shortstop T. J. Sweeney—to the Boston club for Outfielder Del Howard.

Tom Evers of the old Washington team, and a left-handed second baseman, is an uncle of the Clubs' lively little second baseman. He is now an attaché of Washington club.

The Pittsburgh club released Pitcher Mike Lynch outright and released Outfielder Otis Clymer to the Washington club of the American League, all National clubs waving claim.

Mother's Friend

LAURELS FOR HASHERS.
The Hashers and the Colored Giants played an interesting game of baseball at Webb park, Wednesday afternoon, the former club winning by a score of 10 and 8.
The bun slicers used Hedges in the box and the Africans used Gardner. The features of the game were the umpiring Candy John and Nels Abel and a home-run drive to the left field fence by George Hogan.

CITY LEAGUE OPENING OFF.
The City Base Ball League, recently organized by amateur players of Marion, was to have opened its season Wednesday afternoon with a double header at Garfield park. However, Jupiter Pluvius interfered and the opening was postponed until this afternoon.

The directors of the Sharon club held a meeting last night, and after it was all over, Pitchers Burwell and Strom were handed their releases. Burwell has a sore arm and prospects for his becoming a winning pitcher were remote. Strom is an Interstate league product who has not been successful. Pitchers Noah and Hawk, who were released yesterday morning by New Castle, will be signed by Sharon.
